

SENATOR WESELY: Right.

SENATOR HABERMAN: Do you have any...is there going to be any money spent until this 2.5 million is in the kitty?

SENATOR WESELY: What the bill provides for is that a certain percentage each year would be allowed to be spent on programs.

SENATOR HABERMAN: How many years do you figure it is going to take to reach the $2.5 million?

SENATOR WESELY: I think we're talking about ten or so years, something like that.

SENATOR HABERMAN: Ten or what?

SENATOR WESELY: Something around ten years if I remember right.

SENATOR HABERMAN: All right, so it's going to take ten years to reach the 2.5 million.

SENATOR WESELY: But I could be wrong. We had some estimates earlier on the amount raised from it and as I remember it was something along in the 1990s at some stage if I remember right.

SENATOR HABERMAN: Now that is from the gross fees or is that included in what you're going to take out each year to spend?

SENATOR WESELY: No, that is the trust fund itself I guess would have to reach that.

SENATOR HABERMAN: So you...okay, let me see if I understand this. You're raising the license fees and the birth certificates and the money that you're raising from those two items are going to go into a fund. Right so far?

SENATOR WESELY: Yeah, okay, go ahead again. I'm sorry.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Yes, they are discussing the Chambers amendment.
